

Julian Yves Richard Corbet

One record. A different visual language.

This document demonstrates an independent style and a scoped substyle. It uses the approved workspace profile with explanatory test content.

- 1 Identity and content

Profile fields supply the name and contact details. This style defines its own section fields; the demonstration makes no employment or achievement claims.
- 2 Layout and hierarchy

The parent style owns geometry and typography. Its substyles rearrange the same content into visibly different compositions.
- 3 Locale and paper

English does not imply US paper. The en-ch leaf explicitly selects A4; en-us explicitly selects US Letter. Both are rendered and verified.
- 4 Checks and outputs

Every declared page preset has a PDF. Geometry, fonts, text extraction and reproducibility are checked against the selected style.

A second page is this style's decision.

01 / Select

The record names a CV style and substyle.
Language-country selects the locale directory.
Page count selects one of the style's declared presets.

02 / Compose

Style defaults, the substyle delta and locale layout settings form the effective presentation. This renderer owns the visual composition.

03 / Verify

The same record produces each substyle. The checker compares the declared dimensions, selected fonts and page count with the actual PDF.

The one-page preset omits this page; the content is not squeezed into a Harvard contract.
